Each apartment can be arranged at night to accommodate comfortably six passengers, and during the day afford all the comforts of a first-class drawing room. Each car is supplied with the best improved annunciator, which connects each room with the servants' apartments. Passengers have only to touch the bell to summon servants, who accompany each car. Families or parties going to Chicago, or points beyond, can now select as good rooms as are furnished at the principal hotels, at a comparative small advance over the ordinary fare, and make the trip between New-York and Chicago with as much comfort as on board a first-class steamboat.

SOLOMON'S TEMPLE EXHUMED.

The London Times publishes an interesting letter in regard to the discoveries at Jerusalem, from which we select the following: "The colossal foundawhich we select the following: "The colossal foundations of the temple wall, which are 'stones of ten cubits and stones of eight cubits,' Inid by Solomon or his successors on the throve, are now being laid bare at the enermous depth of 90 feet and more beneath the present surface. The bridge that once spanned the ravine between the palace of Zion and the temple on Moriah is now proved to have been upward of 150 feet high. If this he, as it seems, the ascent to the House of the Lord which Solomon showed to the Queen of Sheba, we cannot wonder that on seeing it there was no spirit in her. The pinnacle of the temple on which the tempter placed the Savior has just been uncovered to the base, and is found still to have an elevation of 132 feet. The statement of Josephus is therefore no exaggeration. If any one looked from the battlements into the valley he would be giddy, while his sight could not reach to such an immense depth. Sections of the ancient wall of Ophet have been exhumed, showing that, as Josephus says, it was joined to the south-east angle of the Temple. Aqueducts, cisterns, rock-bewn channels and passages have also been discovered within and around the harem, throwing new light on the buildings, the arrangements, and the services of the temple. The great work of a complete exploration of ancient Jerusalem is thus fairly and auspiclously commanced. The opportune visit of the Sultan and grand vizier to this country, and the representations made to the latter by the Archbishop of York, followed up as they have been by the energy, the visit of the Sultan and grand vizier to this country, and the representations made to the latter by the Archibishop of York, followed up as they have been by the energy, the wisdom, and tact of Lieut Warren and his admirable staff, have smoothed down Mostem prejudice, removed local opposition, and thus brought about opportunities for excavation and exploration such as never occurred before; and besides, large numbers of Arab laborers have been trained to the work, and are eager to be employed; and the exact points for successful exploration are now well known."

Bishop Kingsley, replying to a narrow-minded, selfish, politi-Episcopal Freedmen's Aid Society, the Rev. Bishop Kingsley, replying to a narrow-minded, selfish, politician's question, "What is all this fuss about t" said: "You can tell the heart of such by their almost invariable use, in speaking of the colored race, of the word 'niggers.' The man who says 'nigger' has, in general, a heart darker than the skin of those he affects to, or really does, despise. I am altogether willing to admit that the colored people are at present sufferers, great sufferers; thousands of them are, in some respects, worse off than when they were in a state of slavery. But all transition stages have their rigors. We all know by experience what housecleaning is in the family. The carpets are up, the tables and choirs out of their places or piled up out of doors, the windows taken down, the beds wheeled from position, and everything in confusion; and the tempers of some of the family are in that condition that comes of making brenkfast entirely of pickles. But because cleaning day brings temporary discomfort, are we to let things remain forever as they are? Can we not bear the present unpleasantness in expectation of something better? The soiders of the Revolution could have been tracked by their bloody footprints over the frozen ground, and they were often without clothing, food, and shelter. In their distresses would it have been right to have tauntingly said to them. You had better let things remain as they were. We are here to-night holding the anniversary of a society whose aim is to assist those who have assisted us. Over loo, oo sable-hued men bared their bosoms in defense of this country. We enjoy to-night the fruit of their sacrifices; we walk our streets unharmed because of the security in part reached by their efforts; we enjoy our homes in quiet because they fought and died for us. And yet, in this free North, this State of ours, there were mean men enough ready to defeat the small boon of conferring the ballot on these colored friends of our Government—these true-hearted unfilinghin

SAN FRANCISCO ON SUNDAY. San Francisco on Sunday is described by a correspondent of The Christian Register. The streets are cleaned, and the people partake of this outward semcleaned, and the people partake of this outward semblance of purity and regeneration. Even the stranger who appeals to you for money to buy his breakfast wears spotiess linen, and the spendthrift or bankrupt contemplating succide on Monday passes you in carefully-brushed broadcloth on Sunday. Fewer drunkards are seen in the streets of San Francisco on Sunday than in any other city of the Union. Though the non-church-going population is so numerous, and the amusements participated in on that day are so numerous, no public distarbance or boisterousness occurs, and the number of police arrests does not exceed that of any of the other days of the week. The Sunday quiet is broken by the horse-cars only. Fond as San Franciscans are of fast driving, the display is confined entirely to the suburbs. A notion of the proportion of pleasure-seckers to church-goers may be obtained from the lines leading to the suburbau places of resort. Architecturally the-churches are fine, although inferior in point of taste to the banks, insurance offices, and hotels. The two most solidly built churches are the Unitarian and the Jewish Synagogue. The former is inferior in style; it suggests a chapel rather than a church, or the perfect porch of some more stately edifice as yet unseen. The interior of the Jewish Synagogue bears away the paint for costly and luxurious decoration. The Catholic Cathedral and Grace Church, or "Grace Cathedral," as the Episcopal Bishop denominates it, are also ambitious, but both are unfinished. The new Trinity (Episcopal) Church is a finely designed Norman-gothic chiffee of wood, whose sham walls of Oregon pine are upheld by equally insecure buttresses of tongued and grooved redwood. The Methodist meeting-house on Howard-st, has two extraordinary additions to its towers, which look like antenna, and make the whole building resemble an insect. Dr. Wordsworth's (Presbyterian) and Dr. Stone's (Congregationalist) churches express the concrete New-England conception of a "meeting house." The Cathedra in the like a blance of purity and regeneration. Even the stranger

THE WALLST, BANK MESSENGER ROBBERY. Edward Goodey, Washington Goodey, and Thomas McKeen, who had been arrested on suspicion of robbing Jarvis W. Kingsley, messenger of the Bank of the robbing Jarvis W. Kingsley, messenger of the Bank of the State of New-York of $3.683,221 61, were yesterday examined in the Tombs Police Court, before Justice Hogan. The clerk Kingsley said that at the intersection of Wall and William-sta, a man seized the bag which he was carrying, and sought to snatch it from his hand. Knowing the prize it contained, Kingsley would not relinquish his grasp, and was dragged by his more powerful assailant out to a sleigh, wherein two men were seated. The secondref still clinging fast to the bag, jumped into the sleigh, which was driven off at a rapid rate. Kingsley still retained his grasp of the bag, but after being dragged through the snow about a block, was forced to let go, as the robbers were beating him over the head. Mr. Lewis H. Bridgham of No. 12 Broad-st., thinks that Edward Goodey is the man who was in the sleigh and whom he saw striking Kingsley. It is not pestively known that Washington Goodey has been implicated in the robbers, but he is held to answer for firing upon the officers, and attempting to rescue his brother Edward from arrest.
